Project Title: Muscle Tissue and Cell Repository

Investigator(s): Steven Moore, M.D., Ph.D.; Katherine Mathews, M.D.; Carrie Stephan, R.N.; Christina Trout, R.N.;

We are doing a research study. A research study is a special way to find out about something. We are trying to find out why some people's muscles get weak.

If you decide that you want to be in this study, this is what will happen. The doctor will take a little blood or tissue from you today to use in a research study. We will ask you to save some pee in a cup. We might ask you to give blood or pee again someday.

There are some things that might hurt or upset you if you are in this study. Taking the blood or tissue might hurt a little bit. We will use some special medicine on your skin so it doesn't hurt so much.

We don't know if being in this research study will help you. But we hope to learn something that will help other people someday.

When we are done with the study, we will write a report about what we found out. We won't use your name in the report.

You don't have to be in this study. It's up to you. If you say okay now, but you change your mind later, that's okay too. All you have to do is tell us.

If you want to be in this study, please sign or print your name.
