Purpose

This premiere conference will feature a diverse group of speakers including nationally renowned experts from University of Iowa HealthCare, along with well-known oncology nurse consultant Elaine DeMeyer from Rockwall, Texas. On the first day, we will welcome eastern Iowa’s own oncology nurse consultant Ann Collins-Hattery who will discuss advances in oncology care, where have we been, and what have we done. Tuesday will also include insightful updates on eye and vision-sparing radiation therapy for ocular tumors, navigating the evidence-based practice journey, and managing the challenges of identifying goals of care/holding an effective family meeting. A new breakout session format in the afternoon will allow attendees to choose between several different subject matters, including Iowa’s Medical Cannabidiol act, a tobacco treatment program in a Comprehensive Cancer Center, human papilloma virus (HPV) related gynecologic cancers, ovarian cancer/diagnosis and treatment options, CAR T-cell therapy/what’s it really like, and treatment options for thyroid cancer/surgery and I-131.

Wednesday presentations will include interesting discussions on personalized/precision medicine, acute leukemia updates, nursing care of flaps in otolaryngology patients and oncology medication updates. Day 2 will also include a dynamic presentation by Elaine DeMeyer about managing oncologic emergencies. In the closing session, Joe Tye, a nationally recognized author, motivational speaker, and coach will provide inspiration to the audience as he describes practical strategies for overcoming inner boundaries and negative self-talk in order to be the most successful in our work and in life.
